Crowns
Porcelain Fused to Metal crowns	£376.50
All ceramic (Metal Free) crowns	£422

There are many types of crowns, inlays and veneers, each with its specific indications. They can be ideal for restoring badly damaged teeth or improving the appearance of crooked, discoloured or heavily filled teeth. Bridges require individual estimates but are in the region of £275 – 400 per tooth involved. and are often the ideal way to restore missing teeth if an implant isn't feasible

Intravenous Sedation £80

Ideal for treating nervous patients who find treatment difficult to tolerate

Root-Fillings From £180—£340

Fees vary according to number of roots and complexity. Treatment of teeth that have already been root treated will attract a higher fee. The fee includes a charge to cover the cost of single-use instruments for preparation of the root canal(s) in compliance with current Department of Health recommendations.

Please note that price lists can only give an indication of the likely cost of treatment as each case is different. Your dentist will give you a detailed estimate when a treatment plan is formulated, and even this might have to be changed as the treatment progresses. If you are unclear please ask and we will endeavour to provide the information or explanation you need.

Dental Care Plan Patients

Plan patients fee levels are 15% less than the equivalent private fees, except where laboratory fees are involved, in which case only our component of the charge is 15% less.

If a large treatment plan is required then this can be paid for over several months by direct debit, but usually in advance of, or during treatment.

For a Healthier, More Attractive Smile

- I wish my teeth were whiter and brighter.
- I'd like to replace my old unsightly metal fillings with a natural looking material.
- I have crowns on my front teeth that don't match my natural teeth.
- I have some missing teeth that affect my appearance or eating.
- Some of my teeth are discoloured, unsightly or misshapen
- My gums bleed when I brush them and sometimes I get a bad taste in my mouth, or bad breath.
- My teeth keep breaking and I'd like to have them strengthened.
- My dentures are loose or uncomfortable.
- My teeth are sensitive to temperature or to bite hard on.
- I have a denture which looks/feels false.
